Basic Contract Law

COURSE DESCRIPTION:

If you ever wanted to learn the basic principles of how to form contracts, here is your opportunity. If you ever wanted to know what steps must be performed you can enforce a contract, here is your chance. If you ever wanted to know what facts really matter in a contract dispute, here is your opportunity. If you ever wanted to know what rights you may have even if you do not have a valid contract, here is your chance. With the complexity of today's construction projects and fluctuating material and labor costs, it is imperative that contractors understand the basic principles of contract law. Today, knowledge is power and what could be more powerful than understanding what you have to accomplish to enter into a contract. The purpose of this class is to give all those that attend a basic knowledge of contract law principles, including how to legally create and enforce a contract, what types of contracts exist, when a breach of contract occurs, and what alternative remedies are available even if no contract is ever formed.
